THE UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG

Bachelor of Arts Programme in Swedish

CREDIT UNIT STATEMENT

The Swedish language and culture programme offered as a minor by the School of Modern Languages and Cultures comprises five different types of courses which are taught using distinctive learning modes. The courses are all 6-credit courses. A range of 120-180 hours of student learning activity (including both contact hours and all other forms of student learning activity) is the norm for a 6-credit course. Contact hours are in a range of 24-72 hours for a 6-credit course. In the case of the 6 credit Study Abroad course contact hours at the home institution are minimal as the course is taught by several Swedish universities and teaching institutions during the summer between the second and third years or third and fourth years. All courses are assessed by 100% continuous assessment. As a general guide, regardless of the teaching method used, the total output should be not more than 4,000 words (bearing in mind that it is required to be in the Swedish language) for a 6-credit course. The categories of Swedish courses are as follows:

1. Introductory Language Courses (6 credits)
These first-year courses emphasize the learning of the Swedish language. Students acquire a basic knowledge in the four areas of competence (listening, speaking, reading, and writing) with a particular emphasis on communicative skills. Classes are conducted in small groups in order to ensure a high degree of interactivity between students and teachers. Conversation groups and laboratory groups are usually also arranged separately on a regular basis. Students will be able to acquire a vocabulary of 1,000 to 1,500 words and are expected to demonstrate that they are able to use this vocabulary within the four areas of competence mentioned above. Assessment is based upon 100% coursework, which includes in-class tests, regular assignments, and online reading and listening, with a total written output of not more than 2,000 words (bearing in mind that it is required to be in the Swedish language). It must be emphasized that assessable output is not only in written form, but also includes a student’s performance in terms of spoken, listening, and reading proficiency in the Swedish language.

2. Advanced Language Courses (6 credits)
These advanced language courses build on the first-year, introductory language courses, thus they emphasize the learning of the Swedish language at an intermediate and advanced level, grammatically as well as in culture-specific issues which are gradually introduced into the curriculum. Students develop further their proficiency in speaking, listening, reading, and writing in the Swedish language. As in the first-year language courses, classes are conducted in small groups in order to ensure a high degree of interactivity between students and teachers. Conversation groups and laboratory groups are also arranged separately on a regular basis. Assessment is based upon 100% coursework, including regular assignments, essays, small research projects, portfolios, and/or short oral presentations, with a total written output of not more than 4,000 words (bearing in mind that it is required to be in the Swedish language). It must be emphasized that assessable output is not only in written form, but also includes a student’s performance in terms of spoken, listening, and reading proficiency in the Swedish language.
3. Survey courses (6 credits)
These courses focus on particular cultures and languages through the exploration of specific topics, such as society, literature, media, films, history, politics, linguistics, history of the language, etc. They are taught predominantly by lectures and tutorials/seminars or by lectures only. Guest speakers are occasionally invited to give presentations on particular topics. Assessment methods are left up to individual teachers who are encouraged to introduce assessment tasks which are appropriate to the stated learning outcomes of the courses. Assessment tasks will normally include in-class tests, oral presentations, as well as the writing of essays, reports, and projects totalling not more than 4,000 words (bearing in mind that it is required to be in the Swedish language). In the case of History of the Language courses, assessment will also include linguistic analyses and portfolios.

4. Study Abroad courses (6 credits)
Usually offered during the summer between the second and third years or the third and fourth years, and organized by several universities and teaching institutions from one of the countries where the Swedish language is spoken, these courses are designed to build on and to reinforce the language competence acquired during the first two or three years of study of the foreign language. These courses have a minimum duration of 3 weeks and they prepare students for more advanced work in their final year of study. The percentage of assessment by coursework and/or by final examination will vary depending on the host institution.

5. Internship course (6 credits)
This course offers students an internship learning experience by allowing them to take their classroom knowledge into the community. Students will have an opportunity for experiential learning, earn credits and engage in a rich experience while working in an organization that demonstrates a real impact on society. The internship experience draws on the Swedish Programme coursework to encourage students to apply their classroom knowledge to work in organizations that demonstrate the use of Swedish in the community. Internships may be conducted at any point between the summer before a student enters Year 3 and the second semester of Year 4. The duration of the internship will depend on the arrangement made between the student and the organization but should involve approx. 120 contact hours of committed service for the host organization. Internships can be conducted during the semester or at full-time equivalent during the lecture-free period. Staffing resources and operations mechanisms allowing, students will be assessed by the organization contact throughout the duration of the internship and will also, if possible, receive a letter of reference from the organization at the end of the internship. A written report (800-1000 words) with a description, critical assessment of and reflection on the internship experience will be assessed by the course coordinator at HKU. Students are asked to make their own internship arrangements with an organization of their choice in liaison with the course coordinator at the Swedish Programme of HKU.
